

Annie Mulvanny joins McNeill Investment Group

McNeill Investment Group of Germantown, Tenn., named hospitality investment specialist Annie Mulvanny as its new vice president, investments and asset management. With MIG, Mulvanny will contribute to the current expansion of the firm's multi-faceted investment management platform.

A graduate of Cornell University Nolan School of Hotel Administration, Mulvanny most recently served as vice president at RobertDouglas, a national real estate investment banking firm. At RobertDouglas, Mulvanny executed hospitality capital transactions, including debt and equity capital raising and structuring for properties and portfolios; programmatic and joint venture equity transactions; and investment sales throughout the United States.

"We are fortunate to have Annie join us as McNeill continues to expand our robust talent pool and execute our multi-faceted investment growth strategy," MIG Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer Chris Ropko said in a statement. "She brings to McNeill outstanding experience in all phases of hospitality real estate investment, including sales and marketing, acquisitions, transaction structuring and asset management."
